

The Gift- Owl Woman

Cooling from the heat of the day under the starry night.

*Feeling broken, seeking peace,
in the Solstice moon so bright.*

*A voice from within spoken word, she begins,
"Walk with me barefoot, connect with the Earth
Pray with me. Imagine. Dream a new birth.*

*We're old and we're wise and we've been here before.
See clear, precious daughter. It's time. Open the door."*

Cher Lyn

Owl Woman is an ancestor from the stars. Cloaked in pale violet blue reflecting the light of the moon. She hands you The Gift of an ancient seed. Cultivate and let it grow within to help you remember the wisdom of what has been forgotten. Cherish this precious Gift with intention. Let it connect you to a higher truth of who you are.

Energy as Einstein stated, cannot ever be destroyed but it can be transformed. If you have buried deep within you a painful experience, unknowingly you will continue to re-create similar feelings to the original hurt. This is your soul's way of trying to get you to look at the original hurt so you can heal and find the reward in its transformation. These types of transformations are laced with absolute magic.

If you haven't made peace with a past experience, The Gift of power then remains hidden and unavailable to you until you can allow for awareness to then let it go. Memories of painful experiences keep you from looking at them more closely. Fear of what they hold and that they may repeat. What you resist persists. Reclaim your power by facing that what you have been neglecting. In the composted fertile soil cultivate a metamorphosis and actualize higher states of divine consciousness.

The Gift medicine card suggests that you have entered the process of moving closer to your true spirituality through letting go of past hurts and painful experiences that have been repeating over and over. Find The Gift and be freed from carrying the imprint of that trauma into your future. These gifts become magical threads in the tapestry of your Being.
